

Job Title: Animal Production OfficerAbout us:

DIT AgTech is dedicated to revolutionising the livestock industry through innovative technology and sustainable farming practices. Our mission is to empower producers with the tools and knowledge they need to improve productivity while minimising environmental impact.

We are looking for an Animal Production Officer to join our team in Katherine, NT. This role is perfect for someone with hands-on experience in the Northern Australian livestock industry, particularly in understanding pasture conditions and the nutritional needs of cattle. While a formal qualification in agricultural science or animal production is an advantage, we know that real-world experience often makes the best professionals. If you've worked in the industry and have a deep understanding of cattle nutrition and pasture management, we want to hear from you!

What You'll Be Doing:

- Collecting and analysing water, pasture, dung, and blood samples to assist producers in making informed livestock management decisions.
- Supporting the company's nutritionist and lab technician by interpreting results and making recommendations for supplementation planning based on seasonal conditions and production goals.
- Assisting with on-farm product mixing and coordinating supplement delivery.
- Providing customer support for DIT's uDOSE™ and IoT devices, helping producers integrate tech solutions into their operations.
- Contributing to research and development (R&D) trials by monitoring and collecting data.
- Maintaining accurate records for accounts, inventory, and asset management.

What We're Looking For:

- Strong background in the Northern Australian livestock industry—you understand cattle, country, and climate.
- Practical knowledge of pasture management and livestock nutrition.
- Ability to work independently and remotely for extended periods.
- Confident communicator who can engage with producers and provide practical support.
- Basic computer skills for data entry and reporting.
- Manual Driver's Licence (essential), HR Licence (advantageous), Forklift Licence (preferred).

Why Join DIT AgTech:

- Be part of a forward-thinking company driving sustainable livestock production.
- Work in a role that values real-world experience as much as formal education.
- Competitive salary, accommodation provided in Katherine.
- Supportive team environment and opportunities for growth.
